

ABSTRACT

User 2 can obtain first information recording medium 10 in which a copying program is recorded, whereby the copying program copies image data specified by signals from specified image data copy signals, and an image data display program and setting information to display the image data by a predetermined method, into second information recording medium 11, and user 2 can display or process the image data which is previously recorded in said information recording medium by the image display program, as well as the image data in other memory means, and can automatically copy the targeted image data, the image display program and setting information, by clicking buttons which are previously formed on a screen of the image display program.